Letter from the Chair

Maria Dolores Dancausa. Chair of Bankinter

Dear Shareholders,

It is a privilege to address you as Chair of Bankinter to present the Annual Report, which marks the conclusion of the 2024 financial year. This year has been especially significant, as I had the privilege of passing on the role of Chief Executive Officer to my successor, Gloria Ortiz, through a succession process that was thoroughly planned and executed with great care.

For the first time, the new CEO is presenting her report to you. The interview included in this Annual Report and the financial results presented portray the bank's exceptional performance, surpassing the figures from previous years and setting a new record in terms of revenue and profits.

Sadly, 2024 was also marked by the passing of Jaime Botín Sanz de Sautuola, a key figure in Bankinter's history. He was Chairman of the bank between 1986 and 2002, and a reference shareholder since the bank's inception 60 years ago. This has been a great loss for the Bankinter family. We have lost a person with an in-depth understanding of the banking business, of its risks and its opportunities, and an exceptional person, full of virtues, sensitivity, and curiosity, whose loss we will mourn for many years.

In the macroeconomic sphere, 2024 witnessed robust indicators in the Spanish economy, with a GDP growth of 3.2%, surpassing the previous year's figure by half a percentage point. Falling energy prices, booming exports and strong performance of the tourism sector have helped maintain a resilient labour market. However, there is still a need to address the discrepancies between these figures and the daily reality of many families, who continue to face difficulties in essential areas, such as housing, employment and earnings.

The year was also marked by the devastating catastrophe that affected several municipalities in the surrounding areas of the Turia River (Valencia). The outrage over the tragedy was compounded by the lack of adequate responses from those who should have investigated and corrected its causes instead of concentrating on pinpointing responsibility. This situation underpins the importance of responsibility in crisis management.

For Bankinter, 2024 has been a year of growth and continuous support from customers, whether companies or families, during which we have helped finance their projects and manage their savings effectively. From a financial standpoint, the bank achieved its best-ever result, with 953 million euros, an increase of 13% compared to the previous year. All the business lines and markets in which we operate have seen growth, strengthening the diversification of our activity and increase of our market share.

Our key financial indicators reflect the strength of our performance and our leading position in the European financial sector. In addition, our share price increased by 32%, exceeding the average of listed banks in Spain.

These achievements, together with our capacity to generate organic capital, have led the Board of Directors to announce a dividend payout of 476 million euros, equivalent to 50% of annual attributable profit.

As for 2025, the future is marked by many factors beyond our control, but also by many others that we can control. Our 60-year history and, in particular, the last decade, are a strong indicator of our likelihood of success. While past achievements do not ensure future success, they serve as the groundwork for our ongoing progress. Our success is not the result of chance, but of thousands of good decisions made by a team of more than 6,000 professionals who have put their talent at the service of Bankinter.

In this scenario, the levels of efficiency achieved in our digital channels and the solid relationship with our customers place us in a strong position to achieve even better results. However, external factors such as political instability in Western Europe, volatility in financial markets and armed conflict in Ukraine and the Middle East continue to create uncertainty.

I would like to highlight two areas that are becoming increasingly important and where Bankinter is firmly positioned: Sustainability and Innovation and, in this field, also our Bankinter Innovation Foundation.

With regard to our commitment to Sustainability, such a commitment has been consolidated over the years through the integration of ESG (Environmental, Social and Governance) criteria into our value chain. We avoid passing trends and focus on actions with a positive impact on society. This year, we rolled out the 2024-26 DNA Strategic Plan, based on three pillars: D stands for differentiation, which highlights this characteristic of our identity in our relationship with customers, Bankinter's people or innovation; N stands for sustainable business, where Bankinter has made significant progress on matters related to marketing of sustainable funds or financing renewable energy operations; and A stands for responsible action, which focuses on ethical management of the bank.

In terms of innovation, Bankinter is still a sector benchmark in terms of the use of cutting-edge technologies and data, with a view of offering the best possible service to its customers. We continue to strengthen our digital channels, which are currently the main way of interacting with the bank. In addition, we have optimised the use of Artificial Intelligence to increase productivity in the Central Services area and the Sales Network, which is improving the customer experience and boosting the efficiency of our processes.

Since its inception, the Bankinter Innovation Foundation has promoted innovation and entrepreneurship. This year, we have added a new programme, "InspiraTech", designed for PhD students and which aims to transform scientific research into real solutions for the market, joining our other programmes: "Future Trends Forum", "Akademia", "Start Ups" and "Cre100do".

In short, after a record year, we face 2025 with optimism and confidence in the future of Bankinter. We remain aligned with the principles that have brought us here, convinced that perseverance in what works is the best guarantee of success. We hope to continue growing and that you will continue to benefit from the increasing value of your investment in Bankinter.

Interview with the CEO

Gloria Ortiz. Chief Executive Officer of Bankinter

What do you think about the performance of the economy in 2024?

The Spanish economy demonstrated significant strength, exceeding the expectations and outperforming other developed countries, both in terms of growth and employment, largely due to the activity in the tourism sector, household consumption and the export sector. The Portuguese and Irish economies, in which Bankinter has an increasingly important stake, also performed positively, in contrast to the concerning weakness of the French and German economies.

Some threats are still on everyone's mind and, in some cases, they represent harsh realities. For example, the war between Russia and Ukraine or the highly tense situation in the Middle East. Trump's arrival at the White House also poses much uncertainty. And then there is, of course, the downward correction of interest rates, which directly affects economic and financial activity.

How did the downward correction of interest rates affect the banking sector?

In 2024, the fall in interest rates somewhat compressed banking profits due to its negative impact on net interest margin. However, this effect was offset by the significant increase in fees and, in the case of Spain, by the positive consequences of the economic boom, which allows a greater volume of investment to be secured, maintaining the historically low default rates. These positive dynamics influenced the sector's stock price, which grew by more than 20%.

In this macroeconomic and sector context, how was Bankinter's performance?

I think we can say that the results of the year were very good, as they increased at a sustained pace and reflect the bank's ability to continue growing organically in a context of lower interest rates. Customer credit increased by 4.18%, reaching 80 billion euros. Of particular note was the growth rate of off-balance sheet assets, which totalled 58 billion as of 31 December, i.e. a 20% increase. Net income amounted to 953 million euros, representing an improvement of 12.8% compared to 2023 and a return on equity of 17.9%, compared to 17.1% in the previous year.

Thanks to the intense commercial activity, all operating statement lines in the income statement improved, including the net interest margin, which closed at 2.3 billion euros, 2.9% above the previous year, despite the drop in interest rates, as mentioned above. The bank's fees rose by 15% to 717 million euros, driven by the asset management business, payment and collection transactions, and the brokerage business. The customer wealth of the Commercial Retail Banking area increased by 12%, with an additional contribution of 14 billion euros. The Corporate & SME Banking area's loan book increased by 6%, up to 34.7 billion. Moreover, a new step forward was taken within the territorial diversification process, so all income generated by the subsidiaries in Portugal and Ireland now represent 15% of the Group's gross operating income.

These results are a new record for the bank, which has been achieved despite the fact that for another year we had to face the bank levy, which we consider unfair and discriminatory. The tax, which is being appealed and is an anomaly on the European tax map, meant deducting 95 million euros from profits. Nevertheless, I think we can legitimately say that for yet another year we have exceeded the most optimistic expectations.

A bank's profits are important, but so is its financial soundness...

This is a fact. This is why we are committed to making Bankinter not just a dynamic, diversified and profitable bank. Moreover, Bankinter is still seen as a benchmark in terms of asset quality, with a non-performing loan ratio of 2.11%, one of the lowest in the sector and a cost-to-income ratio of 36.3%, the best in the Spanish banking sector. Also noteworthy is the bank's comfortable position in terms of solvency, which is reflected in a CET1 capital ratio of 12.41%, i.e. 440 basis points higher than the minimum required by the European Central Bank for Bankinter for 2025: 8.01%, the lowest among listed Spanish banks.

Thanks to this strong performance in all areas, we can once again fulfil our commitment to distribute a dividend equivalent to 50% of our profit.

One of Bankinter's main developments in 2024, which will be implemented during 2025, was the decision to merge with EVO Banco, which until now had been operating as an independent subsidiary. What is the reason for this operation?

When we merged with EVO in 2019, we thought it made sense to have a stand-alone, digital-only business with a simple value proposition and the capacity for growth and profitability. Five years later, with EVO already profitable and growing at double digits, we have demonstrated that this project was viable. However, we now believe that it is the right time to start a second phase. For several reasons. We aim to equate the return on equity of EVO with that of all other businesses of the bank. We also seek to make EVO's innovations in the digital realm transcend all our customers, something that has not been happening until now. We believe that the operation will allow us to meet both objectives more quickly, since we combine investment strength and economies of scale with digital talent, all of which will allow us to attract more customers.

What other milestones characterised the past year?

The merger with EVO was not the only strategic decision adopted in 2024. The creation of a new Digital Organisation (which will incorporate EVO's customers) was also agreed, which will be a key tool for customer acquisition in the future. With regard to our products, we achieved some significant successes. The growth of the investment fund business was very positive and the Bankinter Premium Fixed Income fund became the third largest in Spain in terms of inflows. During its first year, 15,774 customers opened the Digital Account, with a balance of 1.7 billion euros. Likewise, the volume of the Dual Mortgage totalled 250 million. Moreover, two areas celebrated very important and highly successful anniversaries. Partner Banking, which already has over 50,000 active customers, thanks to the agreements signed with large corporations, celebrated its thirtieth anniversary, as did Bankinter Investment, a pioneer in alternative investment, with a committed capital exceeding 5 billion euros.

What are the bank's expectations for 2025?

I am very optimistic. The drop in interest rates will force us to manage operating statement lines well, because there will be a narrowing of the net interest margin, but I believe that we will be able to compensate for this with higher volumes and higher earnings from fees and intermediation. We are also confident that the commitment and enthusiasm of our professionals will help us face the upcoming challenges. To sum up, I believe that in 2025 we are in a position to improve on the record profits of 2024, to maintain the high level of return on equity and to maintain the growth rate of all our businesses. Moreover, I hope that geopolitical risks, which are a source of great uncertainty, remain contained. Having said all that, I have no doubt that in 2025 Bankinter will continue to be a strong leader in the Spanish market in many aspects, such as asset quality, solvency, profitability and efficiency. In addition, in 2025 we celebrate the bank's sixtieth anniversary, the perfect reason to feel proud of what we have achieved in the past and to be excited about our future achievements.

The revenues generated by Bankinter Portugal and Ireland now account for 15% of the Group's total gross operating income.

Commercial Banking

The retail banking business made its largest contribution to the Group's revenues. Customer wealth stood at 127 billion euros, 14 billion more than at the end of 2023 (+12%). Of the latter, 7 billion euros correspond to net new money and the other 7 billion euros to the market effect. Breaking down customer wealth by segment, 71 billion euros come from Wealth Management, which serves high-net-worth customers, and 57 billion euros from Retail Banking.

The asset management activity, a core part of income generation via fees, spearheaded the bank's growth, with off-balance sheet managed funds that at the end of December totalled 57.7 billion euros, 22.2% more than in 2023. Investment funds, both proprietary and third-party funds distributed by the bank, had a historic year, placing Bankinter Asset Management among the top three fund managers in the Spanish market with the highest net inflows, according to Inverco.

One of the products that attracted new customers the most was the Salary Account, thanks to which the bank attracted 665,000 new customers. Mortgages experienced a certain boost in the second half of 2024, in line with the improved performance of the home sales market, which allowed new mortgage production to match that of the previous year: 5.8 billion euros, of which nearly 70% were fixed or mixed rate.

Bankinter Investment continued to lead the alternative investment business, with 28 structured vehicles, in which more than 14,700 investors have invested, with a committed capital at the end of 2024 of 5 billion (+11.2%).

Risks

Bankinter continued on its path of prudent growth in 2024, seeking to balance growth, profitability and risk at all times. The bank has a risk management model of proven effectiveness that is in line with regulatory standards and best international practices, in proportion to the scale and complexity of its business activities.

Credit risk indicators remained at low levels in 2024 and the corresponding provisions increased by 10.59%. Risks linked to high inflation have eased, leading to a shift in central banks' monetary policy, with interest rate cuts in both Europe and the United States.

Net interest income exposure to market interest rate risk associated with changes of ±100 parallel basis points is +2.7% for rising rates and -3.5% for falling rates, both for a twelve-month horizon. The sensitivity of economic value to parallel shifts of ±100 basis points stood at +2.5%/-2.7%, respectively, of Shareholders' Equity at year-end 2024.

Last year, customer funds increased by 3.4 billion euros, driven by all business areas. As a result, the average of retail deposits continued to be considerably higher than customer credit, with the ratio of customer funds to credit standing at 105.6%.

In addition, progress was made in the analysis of the materiality of reputational risk arising from climate risk.

Shareholders' Equity

In December 2024, Bankinter received a notice from the ECB with the result of the Supervisory Review and Evaluation Process (SREP), which included the minimum capital requirements applicable from 1 January 2025 onwards. According to the notice, Bankinter's risk profile remains unchanged as compared to previous years. The entity remains in the Group of Spanish and European banks with the lowest Pillar 2 requirement, which stands at 1.30% (1.39% previously) and must be covered by 0.731% with CET1 (0.782% previously), 0.261% with additional TIER1 instruments (0.244% previously) and 0.325% with subordinated TIER2 instruments (0.348% the previous year). These figures reflect the bank's strong risk profile, as it has the fourth lowest requirement among all banks under the supervision of the ECB.

In relation to the requirements of the macroprudential regulations, Bankinter was subject to the countercyclical capital buffer established by the Central Bank of Ireland and the systemic risk buffer established by the Bank of Portugal at the end of 2024, which raised the minimum CET1 requirement by 0.078% and 0.147%, respectively.

Taking into account all of the above, as of 1 January 2025, the minimum requirements for the CET1 and Total capital ratios were 7.96% and 12.03%, respectively (8.01% and 12.12%, at the end of 2024).

Throughout 2024, the Group continued to build the buffer of eligible liabilities to meet the MREL by generating organic capital, issuing eligible instruments and managing its balance sheet. At year-end, the level of MREL-eligible instruments stood at 24.04% (21.32% excluding the capital to be dedicated to cover the combined buffer requirement of 2.725% of risk-weighted assets), and 8.66% of the leverage ratio exposure.

In 2024, active and efficient management of its capital remained one of Bankinter's strategic priorities. The aim is to strengthen its solvency position, boosting the flow of credit to households and businesses without affecting its capital ratios and preserving its usual payout level of 50%.

The Group's highest-quality capital, represented by the CET1 ratio (the ratio of Common Equity Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets), was 12.41% at the end of the year, 11 basis points above the previous year's ratio. The increase was possible despite the growth in customer credit and the extraordinary bank levy.

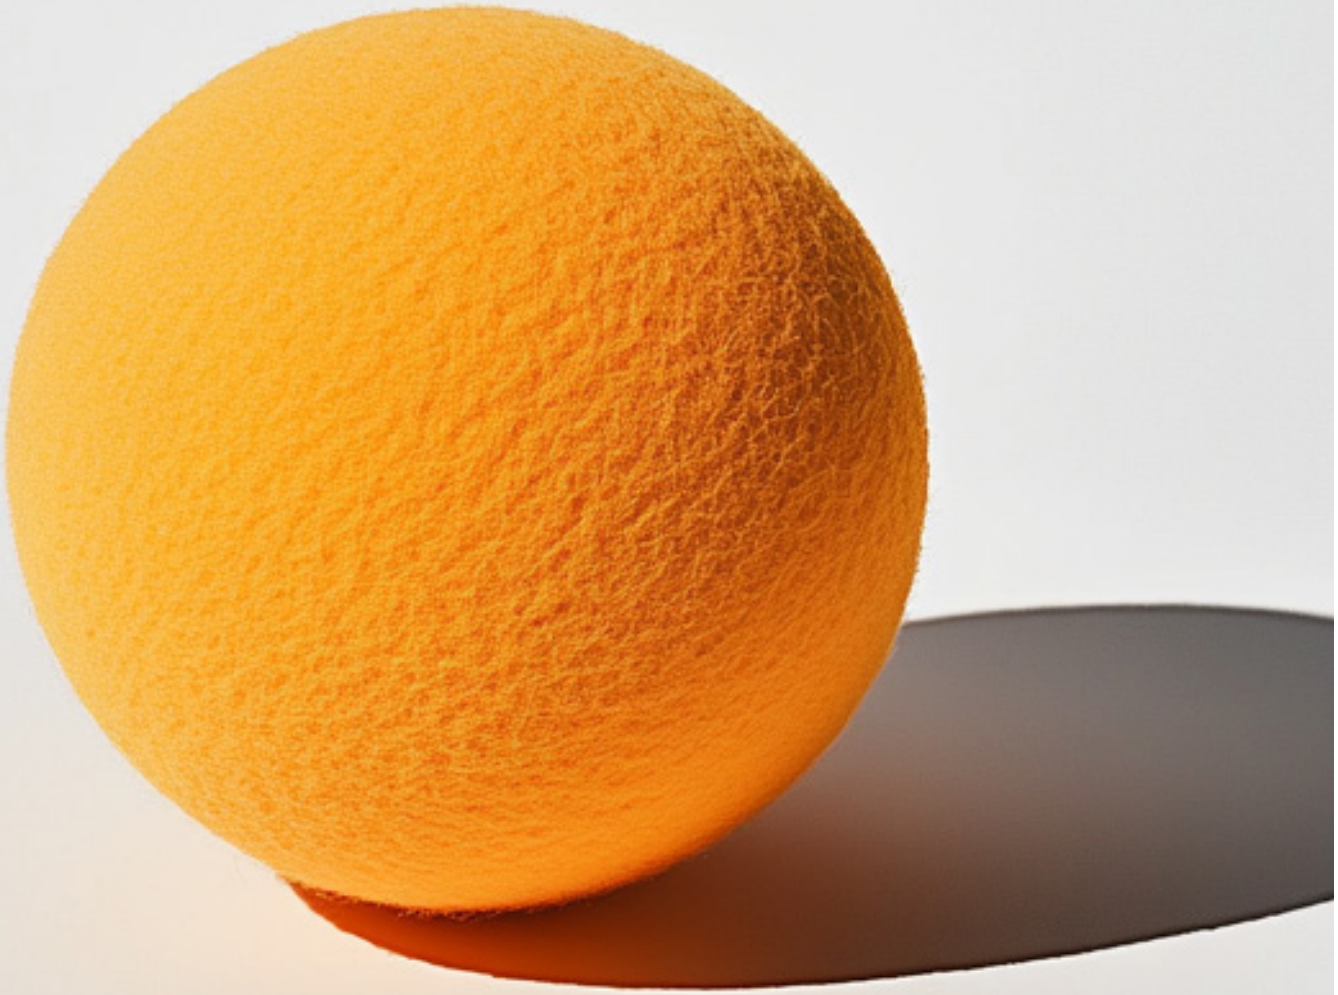

The results and the maintenance of the risk profile helped maintain positive trends in the solvency ratio. The result of the year allowed us to retain 117 basis points of capital after applying the Group's traditional dividend policy (50% of profits).

Demand for credit was satisfactory. Investment in companies experienced strong growth, both nationally and internationally. The mortgage business (mitigated for capital purposes due to guarantees) continued, considering all geographies, to grow above the sector. There was growth in all other activities. As a result, business growth detracted 79 basis points from the CET1 ratio.

With regard to operational risks, which is estimated according to the average of elements related to the Group's gross operating income over the last three years, it subtracted 20 basis points. Its year-on-year growth is correlated with the growth of the gross operating income. The CET's remaining items (those related to portfolios recorded at fair value) generated 15 basis points of CET1 and the bank levy subtracted 11 basis points.

At the end of the reporting period, the CET1 and Total Capital ratios stood above the minimum requirement by 446 basis points (or 1.9 billion euros) and 424 basis points (or 1.8 billion euros), respectively.

Corporate & SME Banking

The Corporate & SME Banking business closed another year with a very solid performance. Pre-tax profit was 850 million euros, an increase of 0.4%. The gross operating income of the area also grew significantly (+2%). Investments grew by 7%, which enabled the business share to rise up by 6.4%, two-tenths more than in the previous year. The results were notable in the case of income from fees (+9%) and customer acquisition (+19%).

By Business Area, the activity was quite strong in the Large-corporate Banking and International Banking areas. Large-corporate Banking saw a record gross operating income, mainly thanks to the excellent performance of fees. Moreover, the International Banking area achieved solid growth in investments, earnings from fees and profits (it contributed 29% of the gross operating income of the Corporate & SME Banking area).

The Medium-sized Enterprises and SMEs areas saw a more moderate, but still positive, growth, with significant growth in the areas of fees and customer acquisition, respectively. For another year, in the case of SMEs, the Business Plan, a model that simplifies the range of accounts and establishes a transparent and progressive fee policy, was a catalyst for activity. 66% of SMEs and 86% of new customers are associated with the Business Plan, which provides clarity to their relationship with the bank.

The transactional banking business (payments, collections, guarantees, factoring, etc.) also recorded significant growth rates.

139.779 customers were added for the year as a whole, 14% more than in 2023. Never before has such a high figure been achieved in just twelve months. As of 31 December, Bankinter had 995,550 customers (individuals).

Commercial Retail Banking earned 387 million euros in fees, which represents a 13% increase when compared to 2023. It is worth highlighting the increase in earnings from fees of the investment fund, equity and insurance product businesses. The net interest margin amounted to 877 million (+27%).

Two other key objectives were also achieved: customer credit grew by 669 million euros, as compared to a decrease of 736 million in the previous year. Large-corporate Banking

Last year was a record year in terms of gross operating income in the Corporate segment, reaching 492 million euros (+2.61%). This improvement was clearly supported by the increase in fees, which rose by 7.40%, driven by tax loans, international business and guarantees. Also worth highlighting was the almost double-digit growth in investments, which rose to 1.5 billion euros at the end of the year.

Sustainability

Sustainability

More resources and a new organisation to respond to new challenges

In 2024, Bankinter strengthened its Sustainability area, allocating the necessary resources and changing the reporting structure so it would report directly to the Chair's Office. It also rolled out the 2024-2026 DNA Sustainability Plan, which is built on three pillars: A for responsible action, D for differentiation and N for sustainable business.

In the area of responsible action, in addition to reorganising the Group's sustainability governance practices, a new double materiality analysis was conducted, in accordance with the latest sustainability reporting requirements.

In the area of differentiation, Bankinter SA and Bankinter Global Services achieved certification of their safety, health and wellbeing management system according to the international standard ISO 45001. The bank continued to promote financial education through various programmes, such as the digital platform Money Town, the "Tus Finanzas, tu Futuro" project together with the AEB, the game Game of Traders for students or workshops adapted for the elderly and for people with intellectual disabilities.

With regard to third sector support actions, 20% of the bank's workforce in Spain participated in its corporate volunteering programme. The 13th "Involvement and Solidarity" programme was held. It has already helped over 135 social projects, which have received 667,000 euros.

In the area of Sustainable Business, Bankinter has designed a sustainable finance framework and set up the Sustainable Marking Unit, which aims to assess transactions using sustainability criteria and mitigate the risk of greenwashing. The sustainability axis was also incorporated into the business strategy.

In line with commercial developments, Bankinter has also made progress on climate and environmental risk management to meet the requirements of the European Central Bank. In this area, it is worth highlighting that the bank has managed to adhere to the decarbonisation roadmap of the Corporate & SME Banking portfolio, offsetting 5.2% of all emissions per million euros invested when compared to the 2023 figures.

> "With this new organisation, Bankinter seeks to respond to the growing challenges in the area of sustainability.

New Sustainability Plan 2024-2026

The new Sustainability Plan 2024-2026 has been defined based on the results of a double materiality analysis to identify the main ESG challenges in the coming years, at the regulatory level and in the market context. Consequently, Bankinter has designed a plan that is structured around the 3 DNA pillars:

The A for responsible action. It focuses on the bank's ethical management and its commitment to responsible and transparent business practices. Its strategic lines are Corporate Governance, ethics and transparency, human rights and supply chain.

The D of differentiation. This includes aspects related to Bankinter's businesses from a perspective of sustainability and also addresses ESG risks. The strategic lines related to this pillar are sustainable finance, climate change, natural capital and cybersecurity.

And the letter A represents "Responsible Action". It covers aspects related to Bankinter's business from a sustainable perspective and also addresses ESG risks. The strategic lines in this area are corporate governance, ethics and transparency, human rights and the supply chain.

Corporate Governance

2024 was a pivotal year, marked by the handover of the Non-Executive Chair's Office and the appointment of a new Chief Executive Officer. The process was concluded on 21 March. A succession process managed in accordance with the provisions of the Succession Policy approved by the Board, which has proven to be key to ensuring that this succession took place in an orderly manner.

In addition, in 2024, the Board of Directors asked three new Independent External Directors to join the Board, with a view to strengthening the Bank's position in the face of the challenges posed by the increasingly intense regulations, digitalisation and the risks associated with technological security. The first, Teresa Paz-Ares Rodríguez, was appointed by the 2024 Annual General Meeting and the other two, Alfonso Villanueva Rodríguez and Juan Antonio Zufiría Zataraín, will be proposed for appointment by the 2025 Annual General Meeting, which will increase the number of Board members to twelve, of which seven are women.

Moreover, and according to the provisions set out in the Regulations, the Board appointed Cristina Garcia-Peri Álvarez as the Lead Director, reinstating a role it had included in the past.

Lastly, in 2024 Bankinter has adopted a new organisational structure in terms of sustainability with the aim of providing and promoting a homogeneous and transversal vision within the Bankinter Group.

Regulatory Compliance

In 2024, the risk measurement methodology for Regulatory Compliance was applied at the corporate level and monitored using a tool common to all affected areas. Bankinter and its subsidiaries continued to roll out the control measures required to guarantee compliance with the regulatory requirements and updated the risk appetite framework and map, as well as the corresponding IT tools. The AML/CFT Policies and Procedures Manual and all attached procedures were modified to make it more streamlined and structured, incorporating the supervisor's proposals and taking into account regulatory changes. A total of 8,773 employees completed 6,749 hours of training in this area. During 2024, regulatory change was managed in a comprehensive manner, participating from the beginning in projects that required the adaptation of the bank's activities or processes.

Innovation

Digital Security

Digital security is one of Bankinter's top priorities. The aim is to guarantee high levels of confidentiality, integrity and availability for customers, employees, shareholders and suppliers. These commitments are set out in the Digital Security Master Plan, which made important contributions to security projects and internal processes in its third year in force. In the area of cybersecurity, compensatory measures for detection, prevention, protection and recovery were deployed. Simultaneously, the level of maturity was improved with regard to managing identities, passwords, additional authentication methods, etc. In addition, Bankinter rolled out a cyber intelligence service to obtain early and preventive information on specific threats, such as stolen customer credentials, compromised credit card numbers, brand abuse, etc.

Digital Banking

Bankinter continued to improve its capabilities throughout 2024 with a view of offering a better and more agile service to its customers. One of the bank's priorities is the continuous improvement of its digital channels. In this regard, highlights include the new broker website, which offers a completely renewed user experience, in line with the current needs of the bank's customers, and the widespread use of virtual cards.

In the Processes area, the process for arranging mortgage loans was streamlined, allowing customers to interact with the bank through different channels (and any combination of them), translating into a greater service agility in the authorisation, processing and signing steps. Other processes that had a significant impact on customers and saw major improvements in 2024 were those related to the transfer of positions (funds, stocks and plans).

The first generative AI initiatives began to produce results. A series of applications were also rolled out with the aim of boosting the productivity levels, both in the central services and across the sales network. In addition, different services were launched on the website to check and manage information about bills, using a natural language for retail customers, or with enriched information for the fund search engine.

Technological Risks and Fraud

The Technology Risk and Fraud Management Division was created in 2024, with the objective of assessing the bank's technological risks, preparing the business continuity plans and protecting customers through the continuous improvement of tools for preventing and detecting technological fraud. The main achievements were the improvement in ICT risk indicators, the centralisation of the management of significant events and incidents, and the development of the ICT Risk Framework, including Bankinter's operational resilience strategy to achieve a high level of resilience, in accordance with the monitoring criteria set forth by the regulation. In 2024, Bankinter defined and launched a new Fraud Risk Management Master Plan, which focuses on increasing the bank's level of maturity in this area. The bank has rolled out a series of projects aimed at driving the bank's innovation, efficiency, scalability and global vision in the realm of technology, as well as proximity to the business and to its customers.

Bankinter Innovation Foundation

The Bankinter Innovation Foundation continued working in 2024 to transform society through innovation and development, via initiatives that generate a tangible impact in multiple sectors.

Future Trends Forum

With more than 800 internationally renowned experts and a proven track record with over 43 successful editions, the Foundation's think tank remains a unique platform for anticipating global challenges and offering a strategic vision to participants. It has organised two forums, "Water: our vital resource in jeopardy" and "Embodied AI: Artificial Intelligence in the physical world". Four of the most important reports were presented: Megatrends (3rd Edition), Smart Farming: The challenge of sustainable food, Quantum computing roadmap for companies and Water: Our vital resource in jeopardy (at the forum of the same name). In addition to the forums and reports, the Future Trends Forum expanded its scope in 2024 by holding 15 webinars, reaching over 10,000 viewers, on the latest topics, such as neurotechnology, AI, smart agriculture and water management.

Startups

Since its launch in 2013, it has invested in 49 startups, offering them not only financing facilities, but also key tools and knowledge for the development of their businesses, all in collaboration with Bankinter Capital Riesgo. The programme ended at the end of 2024, after having achieved its initial objective of securing professional investment for startups during their earliest stages after inception, with the aim of driving the development of the entrepreneurial ecosystem in Spain. However, the last startup joined the programme before it was closed: MiResi, an innovative platform that facilitates access to nursing homes and home care services.

Startup Observatory. It is the reference tool for analysing and understanding the Spanish entrepreneurial ecosystem. According to 2024 data, the total investment in startups exceeded 3 billion euros, showing a return to the path of growth. The average round size increased by 62% to 9.9 million euros, driven mainly by the increase in mega rounds (over 50 million euros).

Scaleup Spain Network. The fifth programme was organised and held in 2024, in collaboration with Wayra and Endeavor. The initiative, aimed at startups with a high growth potential, offers entrepreneurs the tools and knowledge required to make the leap towards their consolidation as scaleups. The fifth programme added 13 new startups to its network, reaching a total of 63 participating companies since its launch.

InspiraTech

In 2024, the Bankinter Innovation Foundation, in collaboration with the CSIC General Foundation, launched InspiraTech, an innovative programme aimed at PhD students with at least two years of advanced training or recent PhD graduates (less than three years since graduating), researchers at CSIC centres and laboratories and projects that focus on industrial and deep-tech areas, with the potential to solve real market challenges. InspiraTech's methodology combines in-person bootcamps and online sessions. Twenty researchers were selected for this first bootcamp, who are developing projects in high-impact areas, such as artificial intelligence, quantum computing, biotechnology and energy.

Akademia

In the first call for applications for the 2024-2025 academic year, Akademia reached a historic participation record, with 159 students. The call for applications for the previous academic year, for its part, closed with an NPS of 84 and a recommendation rate of 100%, thus consolidating the excellent reputation among participants. One of the main new features of last year's programme was the replacement of the traditional practical case with a real challenge posed by a company, as part of the Cre100do programme. New experts joined the programme in 2024, mainly from the Akademia Talent alumni network.

Cre100do

Ten new companies joined the Cre100do community, each selected for their excellence and capacity for innovation: Lantania Group, Galenicum, Aluman Group, Matachana, Instituto Español, Making Science, Fain, Matarromera, Kaleido Ideas & Logistics and Salicru. With these new additions, the Cre100do community now has 130 companies, and is consolidating its role as a benchmark of the Spanish middle market, while demonstrating that ETIs are key players in the creation of wealth and jobs. 40% of the Cre100do member companies are based in municipalities with fewer than 20,000 inhabitants, which reinforces their role in the fight against depopulation and in their commitment to create local jobs.

People Management

The Strategic People Plan was upgraded in 2024 with initiatives that focused on five major lines of action: attracting the best people, developing internal talent, generating an environment of inspiration and commitment, ensuring a competitive remuneration and making progress on the bank's sustainability strategy.
